

I have already written letters to Michael Powell and the president about this issue and i want you to know that it is serious concern of mine and many of the people i associate with. The media monopoly is already in place, as i get such vapid and consistently repetitive news and viewpoints from CNN and USA today and even my local papers. i cant get enough of NPR and alternative media sources. please dont make it harder for those of us with opinions outside the executive office's jingoistic mantra to get variety in our search for news and opinion.
